The key difference between the major and minor permit types is the required degree of environmental review and the appropriatenss of the use of the proposed site.

A "special development permit" is requested when the proposed use of a property is not allowed with the present zoning district and the property in question is not next to a property with the proper zoning requested.

Special development permits are commonly employed to protect residential neighborhoods against potentially diruptive uses such as uses that might generate substantial amounts of noise, odor, or traffic.

Environmental Consultant Charge

As Needed

Fees are payable at the time of submission of the application, or, in the event an EIR is required, at such time as it is determined an EIR is necessary, or in the event a specialized environmental study is required, at such time as it is determined necessary. In the event the City retains a consultant to assist in preparation of the EIR, the applicant shall deposit an amount to be determined by the City Administrator based on the estimate of the cost of preparation.

If the costs of preparation exceeds the amount of the above deposit, the City Administrator shall notify the applicant who shall, within five days of such notice, deposit additional amounts necessary to cover costs of preparation. If costs of preparation are less than the amount deposited, any amounts remaining upon certification of the EIR shall be refunded to the applicant. Any applicant who desires to proceed directly to the preparation of a draft EIR may do so without the payment of a fee for review and initial assessment upon payment of the fee for preparation costs review, and required filings for an EIR.

The fee for copies of documents prepared shall be the standard fee charged by the City for copies of like documents, provided that no fee shall be charged another unit of government required to review any document requested by it. Postage charges will be added if documents are mailed.
